OUR MISSION

To educate and offer support in the areas of mental illness, addiction, conservation of the Earth's natural resources, and the welfare of animals.

OUR BACKGROUND

Colby's Army is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization that aids people, the environment, animals, and those who help them.

We were formed in memory of Colby Keegan, a kind and talented young man who suffered from schizophrenia and, as a result of his mental illness, addiction. His fondest wish was to "affect positive change" in the world, specifically in the areas of people with mental illness and/or addiction, the environment, and animal welfare. He touched many people in a positive way and Colby's Army carries his wishes and spirit forward.

Individually we can help many. Together we will change the world.

WHAT WE DO

People

We assist people and organizations whose goals are to help the addicted and the mentally ill; and remind people that everyone is deserving of respect (no matter their color, shape, size, age, or circumstances) unless the person acts in a manner undeserving of it; we also encourage helping others, as long as it doesn't put you in danger.

Environment

We help people and organizations leave the Earth in better shape than they found it; and show people how to clean up after themselves, avoid littering, conserve resources, and only use what is needed.

Animals

We provide educational resources on animal care and welfare; teach people to be kind to animals; and help people and organizations whose goals are to further animal care and welfare.

Scholarships

We provide scholarships in the above key areas and encourage education so we can make our world a better place for all.
